

Local Aboriginal Land Councils

Bathurst Local Aboriginal Land Council

BLALC, located in Bathurst, focuses on advocacy, cultural heritage assessments, and providing low-income rental properties and men's homelessness services. They are engaged in land management and cultural preservation efforts, including the rehabilitation of significant sites like Wahluu Gimaara. Collaborating with BLALC can be initiated by reaching out to their CEO, Toni-Lee Scott, at CEO@bathurstlalc.com or by phone at (02) 6332 6835.

Orange Local Aboriginal Land Council

OLALC, based in Orange, is dedicated to supporting Aboriginal people aged 0 to 64 with disabilities through the NSW Aboriginal Ability Links program, assisting them to "live the life they wish to live." The council also offers services such as supported homelessness programs for adults and families, housing support, and community development initiatives. They are actively involved in land regeneration projects and provide cultural services like Welcome to Country ceremonies. To collaborate with OLALC, individuals and organizations can contact them directly via email at reception@olalc.com.au or by phone at (02) 6361 4742.
